

Key evaluation questions and data sources for COVID-19 Evaluations (June 2021)

The Independent Evaluation Office has gathered experience from evaluating UNDP's support to the response and recovery to the COVID-19 pandemic, and has developed a set of evaluation questions and sub questions that can be used in evaluations of UNDP projects, outcomes, portfolios and country programmes. Depending on the type of evaluation and the scope, either all or some of these questions may be used or supplemented as needed by the programme unit.

The questions are organized around the OECD-DAC evaluation criteria, but can be allocated depending on the main questions of the evaluation. For each question a non-exhaustive set of data sources is listed, which evaluators can use to find some information to answer the questions.

Underlying this guidance is a principle of "do no harm", and a consideration that the safety of staff, consultants, stakeholders and communities is paramount and the primary concern of all when planning and implementing evaluations during the COVID-19 crisis.

COVID-19 questions and data sources
